We found no Monroe County short-term rental permit. You owe 14.25% tax (9.25% sales plus 5% county occupancy) and a state business tax license once gross receipts reach $3,000 a year.

Licensing steps

STATE OF TENNESSEE

- [ ] Register for sales tax
  Register through the Tennessee Taxpayer Access Point (TNTAP). One registration covers all your rentals in the same city or county. If you take direct bookings, collect 7% plus the local rate and file by the 20th of each month. Once registered, file every month, even a $0 return.

- [ ] Get a business tax license
  Rentals under 180 days owe business tax. With $3,000 to $100,000 a year in gross receipts in a city or county you need a minimal activity license; at $100,000 or more, a standard license. Booking platforms don’t handle this for you.
- [ ] Know what the platform collects
  Airbnb, VRBO, and other marketplaces collect and remit sales tax and local occupancy tax on their bookings. Keep records showing they did. For direct bookings, you pay sales tax to the state and occupancy tax to the city or county.
- [ ] Then your county and city
  Permits, zoning, and occupancy tax rates are where Tennessee towns differ most. Pick your area.

MONROE COUNTY, TENNESSEE

MONROE COUNTY (UNINCORPORATED AREAS)

- [ ] Register for sales and occupancy tax
  Tax on stays here is 9.25% sales tax plus 5% county occupancy tax. Airbnb and VRBO collect both on their bookings. For direct bookings, file sales tax with the state through TNTAP by the 20th of each month. Ask the Monroe County Clerk where to file the county tax on direct bookings.
- [ ] Ask about zoning
  Ask Monroe County Planning whether zoning allows a short-term rental at your address. Check your HOA rules too.
